SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 14, 1860.

To the Public.

THE SENTINEL, having double the circulation IN THE CITY, and more than treble out OF IT, of any other paper here, renders it far the cheapest and most desirable medium in Milwaukee for all classes of Advertisements.

EVERY BUSINESS MAN, who consults his own interest, will avail himself of the columns of THE DAILY SENTINEL,—especially when he can do so at the same prices charged by other papers, and secure more than double the advantage of circulation.

This is no boast, but EVERY WORD TRUE.

This Morning's News.

Uncle Sam's difficulties with Peru are said to be approaching a crisis.

A trotting match took place yesterday, in New York, between Princess and Ethan Allen, in which the latter was victorious.

HICKS, the murderer of the captain and crew of the oyster sloop E. A. Johnson, was executed in New York yesterday.

Lincoln Arraigned.

The N. Y. Journal of Commerce (Breckinridge) and the Milwaukee News, (Douglas) arraign Mr. LINCOLN upon the charge of "defying the Supreme Court," and adduce the following extract from a speech made by him in 1858, as evidence in point:

If I were in Congress, and a vote should come up on a question whether Slavery should be prohibited in a new Territory, in spite of the Dred Scott decision, I would vote that it should.

Of course, the inference is, that both Mr. DOUGLAS and Mr. BRECKINRIDGE would yield to the behests of the Supreme Court, in this matter, and vote against prohibiting Slavery in any and every Territory of the United States. What say the FREEMEN of Wisconsin to this sort of "Popular Sovereignty?"

The Coming Crops.

A prominent citizen of Dane county, who was in town yesterday, informed us that he had two hundred acres sown to wheat, which promised to yield nearly thirty bushels to the acre. He added that a near neighbor had from seven to eight hundred acres in wheat, from which he expected to realize twenty thousand bushels. This, at a dollar a bushel, would be twenty thousand dollars—a pretty fair income.

One of our experienced Produce Dealers, yesterday, estimated the grain crop of Wisconsin for 1860 to be equivalent to twenty millions of bushels of wheat. Should this not prove exaggerated and prices keep up to their present standard, this would represent a value of twenty millions of dollars. That would answer for one year.

ONE MORE FOR LINCOLN.—The Mt. Carmel Register, one of the ablest of Illinois newspapers, has come out fairly for LINCOLN and HAMLIN. The Register has been until a fortnight past, an Old Line Whig organ, with suspicious leanings toward Douglasism. The groans of the Douglasites in that region in view of this accession to the Republican strength in Illinois, are said to be doleful to hear.

GREAT GERMAN DEMONSTRATION.

Carl Schurz at the Republican Head-Quarters—The Wide-Awakes—Their First Grand Rally.

The demonstration last evening in honor of the talented Republican orator of Wisconsin, on the occasion of his first address here, was a triumph. The Lincoln Wide-Awakes had been notified to attend, but at the appointed hour so many more than were expected presented themselves that the uniforms in readiness were only sufficient for about half the number. There was, however, a large troop, which did good service.

The Wide-Awakes were formed in line at the headquarters, by Captain Sturges, and marched to their torch room on Union street, where such as could be accommodated provided themselves with uniforms and torches. The company was then formed for march, led by the Becker Band. Immediately following the Band was the stalwart form of Abner McIlrath, Esq., bearing upon his shoulder, high above the reach of men of ordinary stature, a Lincoln rail. "Ab's" towering form was never seen at better advantage than last evening, and by his side was his "boy Jim," in whose person there is not an inch less Republican stock. The latter carried the mail, symbolical of Democratic prospects in November. After these came the Wide-Awake club, four abreast, and making a fine appearance. The company was marched through Water and St. Clair streets to the Angier House, where the orator was received. The escort from the hotel to the Headquarters afforded a beautiful scene. In addition to their torches, each member carried a number of Roman candles, and hundreds of these filled the air with sparks, and a continually changing galaxy of balls of livid fire. Bank street was never before so illuminated, and the success of the arrangements was complete. Cheer upon cheer went up, and added to the enthusiasm of the brilliant ovation. The Wide-Awakes performed their first duty in the campaign in a truly worthy manner.

Arrived at the Hall, Mr. Schurz was conducted to the stand by Mayor Senter, Capt. Sturges and his aids. A. Thiesen, Esq., received and introduced Mr. S. to the audience, prefacing that act with a brief address in German, which was well received. Mr. Schurz held the undivided attention of his countrymen in a speech which called forth frequent and hearty demonstrations of applause, and gave evidence of the speaker's complete control of his audience. It was a sound, thoroughly logical effort, and contained a statement of Douglas' position rarely equalled for truth and cutting sarcasm. The Hall was crowded with Germans, whose spirit was fully aroused by the stirring appeals of their favorite speaker. The representatives of Vaterland never before made so effectual a demonstration in this city.

When Mr. S. had retired to his hotel, he was serenaded by the Becker Band. Rockets were fired and various manifestations of thoroughly aroused enthusiasm took place. Mr. S. appeared in answer to the call, and briefly acknowledged the honor, expressing the hope that his hearers would be "Wide Awake" during the Canvass, and "Wide Awake" to the responsibility hereafter.—Three hearty cheers closed the demonstration, which was a striking evidence of the German feeling for Republican principles and "Old Abe."—Cleveland Herald, July 10.

An Appeal to Englishmen Answered.

From the N. Y. Albion.

When Com. Tatnall was on his way in his gig from the Powhatan to the ship of our admiral, during the disastrous engagement of the Peiho, John Hart, an American seaman, the coxswain of the commodore's boat, was killed by a shot from the Chinese forts. John Hart left a child, a daughter, eight years old. This child, we are told, is almost unprovided for. No Englishman need be told his duty in this matter. We simply repeat that the child is almost destitute, and that it will be our pleasure to receive and to place at the disposal of Com. Tattnall any funds which may be contributed by our countrymen for the benefit of the child of John Hart, one of the men who felt that "blood was thicker than water."

From the N. Y. Tribune.

THE CALL UPON ENGLISHMEN ANSWERED. Mr. Benjamin Woodward, of Worcester, Mass., telegraphs us that he will adopt the child of the late John Hart, the American seaman who was killed by a shot from the Chinese forts, while on his way with Com. Tattnall from the Powhattan to the ship of the English Admiral.

LARGE WHEAT.—James Acker, of the town of Lafayette, brought into our office on Thursday, several heads of winter wheat, one of which measured six inches and three quarters in length, and many others nearly as long; one head had ninety-eight kernels in it. There were three varieties, Creight, Soles and Red-chaff bald, and was all well filled. If anybody can beat that, we should like know it.—Elkhorn Independent, 13th.

WRECK OF THE STEAMER MALABAR.

Great Loss of Property—Narrow Escape of Lord Elgin and Baron Gros.

The London Times of the 22d ultimo comes to us with full details of the wreck of the steamer Malabar, near Ceylon. Among those on board the vessel were the English and French ministers to China, Lord Elgin and Baron Gros. The Malabar was an iron built ship of 1,080 tons, and just five years old. She was built in five compartments.—The disaster took place in Galle harbor, Ceylon, on the 22d of May.

THE SQUALL.

About half past two o'clock the Malabar's commander, Captain Grainger, goes to his cabin for a change of clothes. He is hardly there, when, suddenly and without a moment's notice, comes a terrific squall from the north-east. It sweeps across the bay and strikes the Malabar on her port side, causing her to heel completely over. The mooring hawser snaps, and she swings round head to the wind, completely reversing her former position. Then comes a shock which shakes the vessel from stem to stern; a second, which brings the saloon skylight crashing into the cabin. Again, again, again, and lamp after lamp is shivered to pieces. We are on the reef, and the rocks are smashing in our plates one after another. Captain Granger is on the bridges—the engineer at his post, but the steam is not up, and the ship crashes and crunches with every swell. The pumps are sounded, and give three feet and a half of water in the after compartment. Five minutes later and five feet are announced. Our position is most critical; not a boat alongside—not one of the ship's boats ready for launching. Before us is the bay with its roaring swell; behind, at four hundred yards distance, the fort, with the sea dashing over the rocks which jut into the water, and breaking in tremendous spray right against the parapet wall. The wind still keeps from the north; if it does not shift, but a few minutes and all will be over. Hold on by the anchor—let it drag but six feet and the engine compartment will be smashed to pieces.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

The squall, however, abates, and the vessel swings clear of the reef. But a new danger appears. The compartments are filling fast, and she is visibly settling by the stern. The water rushes into the tunnel, and indicates seven feet in the hold. Unless steam be got up, down she must go, stern first, in a very few minutes. A panic seizes some—happily but a few—of the passengers. A rush is made to the boats. If they be launched, the Lascar crew will refuse to work, and in the general rush they will be sunk or stove in. Quietly seated on the poop, Lord Elgin is conversing with his usual tranquility.—Some few days before our arrival he remarked to me that Galle was an unpropitious place for him, as there he first heard the news of the Indian mutiny, in 1857. "Absit omen," was my reply; but in the very height of the crash, amid the howling wind and the hissing sea, he asks if I remember what he told me about Galle. Baron Gros nobly seconds his colleague. He is cool and collected, as though walking on the Boulevards, and England and France were never more worthily represented than by their two ambassadors, who set an example to every one.

The panic is but of short duration. The cowards are shamed by the quiet courage of the chiefs. Twenty-five minutes have elapsed, and Mr. Bailey, the Peninsular and Oriental agent, with Mr. Janty, the active harbor master, comes on board, and now the steam is up, the chief engineer having poured gallon after gallon of oil on the coals to quicken their action. A rumor is spread that the captain is going out to sea. In truth, this was his first idea. The vessel is provided with powerful pumps, which can only be worked when the engines are going. There is no room in the harbor to steam ahead, and the captain trusts he can keep her afloat outside with the pumps, and so save ship and cargo. All hope is soon destroyed by the fearful rapidity with which the water rises. The chief engineer rushes on deck. "In the name of God, captain, don't proceed to sea, we are in a sinking state. Beach her at once." But the rumor gains ground, and some of the passengers pester Lord Elgin with vain requests: "Will not your Lordship order the boats to be lowered?" "Will you not protest against going to sea?" "Will you not speak to the captain?"

Lord Elgin steadily refuses to interfere with the captain in the discharge of his duty, but sends Col. Crealock with a message: "Lord Elgin presents his compliments and wishes to know if you are going to sea?—"Going to sea! we are going down." And so we are, and that visibly. Still not a boat alongside, the cargo boats having disappeared after the first bump. The quartermasters are at the helm, which they have never quitted during the widest confusion. "Heave at the anchor." "Cheerily, men, cheerily." They work with a will, and, God be thanked, at the first revolution of the engines the screw drives her ahead. The bilge injection is set to work, but the water gains rapidly. It is up to her stern ports. The saloon and cabins are full. She is sinking fast. Will she live across the bay and reach the sandy beach? Mr. Loch, Lord Elgin's private secretary, served in the navy in early life. He goes to the captain, and asks leave to prepare one of the quarter boats for lowering, so that if we sink in crossing there may be a chance of saving the women. Permission is readily granted, and Mr. Loch, Col. Crealock, and a few others soon have the boat ready for launching. Now we are off. The stern sinks lower and lower.

"Keep you eye on that mast," quietly remarked an old sailor to me:—"I don't expect we shall get across, and if we sink it may be above water." At length we reached the sand. Let go the anchors. She swings, and the order is given to go astern; but at the first revolution of the engines are brought up standing. The broken hawser is round the screw! Had it twisted the other way, we never could have gone ahead. We veer cable, and she is quietly beached on the sand, stern first. It is high time. All the longer and the water is in the engine-room. The ship's boats are now lowered. So great is the swell that to lie alongside is a work of danger. There are some twenty vessels in port, but two only send boats.—The first (English) is swamped in the heavy surf. The other (French) gets under the ladder and fills, but the men are active, and quickly bale her out. Both have their skippers on board. Let their names be recorded, for they well deserve it. The Englishman is Peter Upton, commanding the barque Waverly, of Newcastle; the Frenchman is Chas. Messemacoher, Capitaine au Long Cours, and his ship is the Paul Auguste, of Dunkirk.

Lord Elgin and Baron Gros despatched Mr. Loch and the Comte de Bastard to thank them in the name of their respective governments. But we must return to the wreck, where all is prepared for saving the women. During the whole scene, amidst the wildest excitement, the ladies behaved most nobly. No shriek is heard, and, though a few tears are shed, there is neither confusion nor dismay. To get them into the boats is no easy matter, but happily it is concluded without accident, one boat receiving them on the starboard, another on the port quarter. Push off, land them quickly and return to the ship. But here are two men on the starboard gangway attempting to escape in the women's boat, which is full enough already. The officer on duty pushes them back, but they are not to be repulsed. They slip past him, and leap, the first for the stern, where he tumbles among the ladies and nearly capsizes the boat, the second for the bow, which he misses and takes a header right into the water. There I should have left him, but the sailors are more compassionate, and haul him in, quite drenched and half killed with fright. Neither of these men is English or French—the first is an American skipper, the second a Dutch engineer.

And now boats arrive from the shore, and the Governor's barge is among them. But Lord Elgin will not quit the vessel until every passenger is saved. One after another he sees them over the side, and at length steps into the barge with Baron Gros, the attaches of the two Embassies and the writer of this letter. We look at the stern, which is all but level with the water, and cease to wonder at the narrow escape of Mr. Gifford, one of the passengers. He went to his cabin to recover something for his wife. A sea dashed through the port, filled the cabin, closed the door, and but for the Venetian blinds, which gave egress for the water into the saloon, he would have been drowned like a rat in a hole. We pull for the jetty, where the Ambassadors land, sorely shorn of their glory, but having shown, under the most trying circumstances, a rare example of courage and steadfastness.

HARVEST is upon us. Many of the farmers in this county have commenced to cut barley and early wheat. We saw several wheat fields in the shock yesterday.—Elkhorn Independent, July 13.

CALL ON MR. TESCH.—We have received, for publication, a call upon Mr. TESCH to allow his name to be used as a candidate for the office of City Treasurer, at the approaching city election. The great number of names attached to the call, compels us to defer its publication until our next issue. It is signed by hundreds of respectable citizens of all parties, who, believing that Mr. TESCH is fairly entitled to the office—having beaten his Democratic opponent at the recent charter election by a handsome majority, but was ruled out by a technical disqualification, which does not now exist—and knowing him to be an honest man, will not oppose him on party grounds. But the old clique, who manage the Democratic wires, are working hard to retain Mr. VON BAUMBACH in the office, and it will require energetic efforts on the part of the Republicans and friends of Reform to insure Mr. TESCH's election.

A CARD FROM THE CITY ATTORNEY.—The News of yesterday contains a card from Mr. J. LADUE, in reply to the statement made in the SENTINEL of Thursday, touching his connection with the disturbance on Market Square. The card is mainly remarkable for its bad taste and ill-temper. Mr. LADUE charges the reporter of the SENTINEL with willfully mis-stating the facts in the case. The charge is false. Our reporter gave the facts precisely as he believed them to exist. Mr. LADUE further advises "the proprietors" of this paper to employ "reporters who have some regard for truth."—With a due appreciation of its value, Mr. LADUE offers this advice gratis. We beg to inform him that no persons are employed about the SENTINEL office, who have not only "some," but a strict "regard for the truth." There is no possible objection to Democrats attending Republican meetings, but when they do, let them behave themselves.

A COOL FABRICATION.—The News of yesterday, alluding to the disturbance at the Republican Mass Meeting on Wednesday evening, coolly says that "it was not commenced by Democrats, but by the so-called Wide-Awakes, and they alone are responsible." This is a willful falsehood. "The Wide-Awakes" are not allowed to leave their ranks and had nothing to do with the disturbance. It was commenced by a few drunken Democratic rowdies, who followed the "Wide-Awake" procession, hooting and groaning at it, and finally made a rush and attempted to steal some of the torches. The attempt was promptly defeated and if a similar outrage is attempted, the next time the "Wide-Awakes" parade, the perpetrators will get a lesson that they will probably remember for the rest of the Campaign.

THE NEWS BEATEN.—The Madison Patriot of yesterday, says that "a gentleman at its elbow," who saw both the Douglas and the Republican Mass Meetings in this city, assures it that while there were "not over 150" in the latter, some 5,000 attended the former! It would puzzle even the News to manufacture a greater "whopper" than that.

THE WEATHER.—We had another day of golden sunshine and cool, dry air, yesterday. The crops are fast advancing to maturity, under the genial influence of this glorious summer weather. If anybody knows of a finer season than we are enjoying in Wisconsin, we should like to have him mention it.

PERSONAL.—The Hon. E. G. SPALDING, M. C. from the Erie District, N. Y., was in our city, yesterday. Some five years have elapsed since his last visit here, and he expressed himself as greatly surprised and delighted at the improvements made meantime.

STREET SPRINKLING.—BROCKWAY, who is "bossing the job" of sprinkling the streets, does up the work in his usual energetic style. If any portions of our principal thoroughfares are neglected, word can be left at this office, and BROCKWAY will attend to the matter.

An Appeal to the Republicans of Milwaukee —The City Treasurership.

MILWAUKEE, July 14, 1860.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—On Wednesday next the citizens of Milwaukee will elect a City Treasurer. Under ordinary circumstances a local election of this character would be of little consequence; but, as political matters now stand, it is of great importance that the Republicans should elect their candidate—both because justice requires that Mr. TESCH should be placed in the office to which he has once before been elevated by the voice of the people; and because the Republican party cannot now afford to suffer a defeat. The National nominations have been ratified; the nomination of our Member of Congress has been ratified, and our party is thoroughly organized; therefore to permit the election of City Treasurer to go by default would be a a disgrace to our organization and highly injurious to our party. We must stand by our guns. The conflict has already commenced. The booming of partisan cannon, like distant thunder, is heard in every direction.—The great armies of the nation are marshaling their forces; and our streets at midnight are illumined with blazing torches, and filled with thousands, marching to show their strength. The mal-administration of our public affairs has aroused the people, and they are impatient for the day to arrive when they can set their seal of condemnation upon the policy of bogus Democracy. Being in arms, we should not lose a battle. We can offer no excuse for not rushing at once into this local combat, and winning the victory. Certainly there would be great glory in such a triumph. We would not only be manifesting our indignation upon those who have ruled and fooled us, and disgraced our city almost beyond redemption, but we would be commencing the contest by gaining a victory, and placing in an office of trust an honest man, worthy to be City Treasurer. Action—immediate, decisive and successful action—is imperatively demanded. We are enlisted for the war and cannot halt until every battle is fought and victory won. Let us then be up and doing. The opposition are at work. We should be at work, and on Wednesday night proclaim to the world, bogus Democracy is dead, Republicanism still lives, our Treasury is safe, and Milwaukee is regenerated. REPUBLICAN.

A VISIT TO MINNESOTA.—We learn that the members of our Chamber of Commerce contemplate taking the opportunity which the present slackness of business offers, to make a visit to St. Paul and intermediate points on the Mississippi, renew old acquaintances, take a glance at the country and crops, and enjoy a little relaxation before entering upon the Fall business. It is their intention to go by the Milwaukee & Mississippi Rail Road to Prairie du Chien, thence up the River to St. Paul, and return home by the Milwaukee & Minnesota Rail Road.—Both of these roads, we understand have very judiciously intimated that they will furnish the members with free tickets for the occasion, should an excursion be determined upon. Whether they intend to go in a body, or in such a way as to suit the individual convenience of each, has not yet, we believe, been decided upon.

MUNICIPAL COURT, JULY 13TH.—Charles Meyer, larceny; fined $10 and costs. Committed till paid.

Chas. Nettke, assault and battery; fined $5 and costs.

JULY 12th.—Michael McGrath, assault and battery; allowed to settle on payment of costs. Paid.

Patrick McGrath, assault and battery; settled on payment of costs. Paid.

Mary Hampden and Mary J. Price, vagrancy; fined $10 and costs. The first was committed, and the second says she will pay July 13th.

Eliza White, indicted for keeping a house of ill-fame, in the June term, and the sentence deferred at that time. Brought into Court and sentenced to State Prison for eight months. She was in the habit of enticing girls to her house, near Division street bridge, for purposes of prostitution, and was arrested and indicted for it.

The July term of the Circuit Court has closed. The Jury was discharged on the 12th inst.

BILLIARD MATCH AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The grand Billiard Match, between AL LE BRUN, of this city, and MICHAEL FOLEY, of Detroit, comes off at the Academy of Music, this evening. The table (one of PHELAN'S patent) will be placed in the Parquette, within fair view from all parts of the Theatre. Everything will be managed properly and quietly. The match will be well contested, both players being experts. Seats may be secured at the box office during the day. There will, no doubt, be a crowd at the Academy to see this trial of skill between two first class Billiard players.

ARRESTED FOR LARCENY.—Yesterday morning a fellow by the name of CHAS. MYER (not the ex-City Marshal,) was arrested by officer RHODES, for stealing a large sized chisel from a man named FRANKLIN STAR. He had offered it for sale at the second hand store of WM. WILSON, in East Water street, near Huron, and from the fact that he sold things there before, which proved to be stolen, Mr. WILSON sent for an officer and had him arrested. He was fined $10 and costs, and committed till paid.

CITY TREASURER.—Mr. VON BAUMBACH announces himself as a candidate for City Treasurer, and will "present his name to the Democratic party, if a nomination should be made." As the PEOPLE, irrespective of party, are interested in the matter, we hope that they will very generally support JOHN H. TESCH, an entirely competent man for the office.

SPLENDID SAMPLE OF WHEAT.—Mr. EDGERTON, of the town of Summit, Waukesha county, exhibited a sample of wheat on 'Change yesterday, which was pronounced by our dealers to be superior to any yet shown in this market. The grain will be ready for cutting next week, and promises a heavy yield.

SPALDING'S PREPARED GLUE.—This article is the best preparation we have ever used for the purpose of repairing splintered veneers, furniture, etc., where glue is required, and is so chemically prepared as to be always ready for use.—Hartford Calendar, August 27.

BASE BALL.—Our Milwaukee Base Ball Club meet, for practice, at 3 o'clock, this afternoon, on Spring Street hill. An Omnibus will leave the corner of Main and Wisconsin Streets, at 10 minutes before 3. A general attendence of the members of the Club is particularly requested.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—We are requested to state that the pastor will preach to-morrow morning and evening. In the evening, by request, he will repeat his address before the Missionary Society of Beloit College. Subject—"Unchronicled Missionaries."

Wisconsin State Teachers' Association to be held in this city.

The Eighth Annual Meeting of the Wisconsin State Teachers' Association will be held in Milwaukee, the sessions commencing on Wednesday, the first day of August next, at 3 o'clock P. M., and continuing till Friday or Saturday, as circumstances may require.

The time has been fixed to follow immediately upon the close of the public schools in Milwaukee, and to precede the meeting of the National Association in Buffalo.

In addition to the exercises announced in the Journal, it is expected that the following gentlemen will address the Association:

Rev. R. PARK, D. D., late President of Racine College, on the Origin and Characteristics of the English Language.

D. S. WENTWORTH, Principal of Seammon School, Chicago, on School Discipline.

Hon. H. C. HICKOX, late State Superintendent of Pennsylvania, has been invited to address the Association.

Those attending the Association are assured of a hearty and hospitable welcome, by the citizens of Milwaukee, and usual arrangements have been made with some of the Railroads, and probably will be with others, to return those who have a certificate of membership, free. Of these arrangements more particular notice will be given in the local papers. J. B. PRADT, Pres't.

J. H. MAGOFFIN, Sec'y.

A DIRECT ROUTE TO BUFFALO.—We clip the following from the Chicago Times of the 10th inst.:

"Many of our citizens perhaps do not know that the PITTSBURGH, FT. WAYNE & CHICAGO R. R., is the only route from Chicago to Buffalo with an unbroken guage, but such is the fact. This route alone can send cars through from this point to Buffalo, without change, time and distance being the same.

A baggage car left yesterday morning with the baggage and paraphernalia of the Ravel troupe; Gabriel Ravel giving this route the preference, as his large amount of baggage could go through to its destination without re-handling. This is undoubtedly a desideratum which passengers and shippers will not lose sight of."

L. TIFFANY has removed his extensive Livery establishment in Chicago. His stables are now opposite his old stand, on the alley directly in the rear of the Tremont House, and at the corner of the same alley on Wabash Avenue. His old friends, as well as strangers visiting Chicago, who wish to drive good horses at moderate charges, will please make a note of this change as otherwise they may get "took in" at the "wrong pew."

THE REPORTED DEATH OF W. A. HAWKINS.—There is good reason to believe that the story, published in one or two of our city papers, of the massacre of Mr. W. A. HAWKINS (formerly a resident of this city) by the Indians near Pike's Peak, is without foundation. Late letters from Denver City, written by intimate friends of Mr. HAWKINS, make no mention of such a catastrophe.

A MEETING of the Republicans of the 6th Ward will be held at MEISTER'S Brewery, corner Third and Walnut Street, Monday evening 8 o'clock. A general attendance is requested. Important business will be transacted. THE COMMITTEE.

OWNER WANTED.—The Police yesterday arrested a boy with a brown door mat, which was undoubtedly stolen. The owner can identify his property by calling at the Station House.

The Need of Home Manufactures.

At the Fourth of July celebration in Fox Lake, Judge McARTHUR, of this city, who was the Orator of the day, delivered an address which is published in full in the Fox Lake Gazette. It is marked by the usual characteristics of the Judge's oratorical efforts; well-turned periods, apt quotations, a lively and graceful fancy, and well-considered sentiments. Besides discussing the usual topics appropriate to the day, the Judge improved the occasion to talk to the people about our own domestic affairs. There is so much worth thinking about and laying to heart in what the Judge says on this subject, that we copy and commend it to the attentive consideration of our readers in city and country:

"If we survey the industrial resources of Wisconsin, we cannot but admire them. The climate is healthy, the soil productive, her mineral and lumbering supplies immense, and her water power most affluent. The Mississippi on the West, the lakes on the east, and her railroads, connecting with all the great through lines of the country, afford access in all directions. Her pine equals that of Norway, her wheat that of Genesee, and her corn, that of Illinois. Her lead rivals that of Sweden, her iron that of Russia and her copper, that of all Europe combined — She has better potatoes than Ireland, and her Lager Beer is superior to that of Germany.

In the midst of all these great advantages, how comes it that the masses of our population are poor; how, and why, in a State exporting annually millions of bushels of grain, and millions of dollars worth of minerals; and lumber and wool, is it that the people have generally suffered from the protracted pressure of hard times? It is simply because we have few or no industrial pursuits in our midst to employ manufacturing labor; and our extravagance has eaten up our substance and left us heavily in debt! The great mass of our people are engaged in agriculture, mining and lumbering, so that the productions of these pursuits are all we have, from which to pay the money we have borrowed at 10, 12 and 15 per cent; and to purchase from the east, and from abroad, the most extravagant importations of goods, to gratify a most extravagant taste at home.

Our production has been immensely inadequate to pay for what we consume, and the gains of labor have been dissipated in the most chimerical investments. Remember that we live twelve months on the productions of four, and that our exports, amounting to many millions, as compared with our imports, leave an enormous balance against us. In 1858, during the wheat season, there was paid in Milwaukee alone, daily, the sum of $60,000 for agricultural commodities to be disgorged upon the seaboard of the East But behold the result; exchange was all the time steadily against us, ruling at never less than one and a half per cent; showing that the combined earnings of all our labor, and the magnificent value of our rich products, were far less than an equivalent for what we had received, to satisfy our wants. In other words, we had labored the year industriously and with energy, for less than our living, and found ourselves in debt. We had not, as a community, enough to pay for our board and washing. The labor of our hands—the enormous products of our soil—were transferred to enrich the cities, and build up the manufactures of the East. And yet, because we can buy goods and borrow money, we appear to think we are getting rich. This is a most fatal delusion; and if we do not understand it now, the justice of nature will scourge us until we get to know it, by still more direful experience.

Our great want, however, is manufactories and workshops,—more employment for artizans and operatives. As it is, we import nearly every manufactured article, used or consumed in the State, and which can be, and will yet be manufactured at home. For example, we supply from our mines sufficient lead for the whole country; and yet there is not a pound of white lead, sheet lead, or pipe lead made in Wisconsin. Nearly every article of wooden ware is brought from the east. Scarcely a farming utensil is manufactured by ourselves, although we have the best material in the greatest abundance.

So with our hides, great quantities of which are annually sent out of the State, and returned to us again in the form of leather, boots, shoes, &c. We clip millions of pounds of wool every year, and send it nearly all away, there not being enough woolen fabric manufactured in the State to clothe the people of the smallest village. Cotton can be furnished in any part of Wisconsin, at much less cost than at Lawrence or Lowell; and of the millions worth of cotton goods we consume, not a yard or pound is manufactured by our people. Although we have iron by the mountain, there is not a foundry or machine shop on a large scale in any part of the State. From the commonest articles used in our kitchen, up to the costliest embellishment for the parlor, all are obtained for us in the eastern cities. The most common laborer saws wood at four shillings per cord, on an imported saw buck; and your very linen is rubbed on a Yankee wash board, and suspended in the drying process by Yankee clothes pins. Now it seems to me that all this is absurd, in a State which can boast of nearly a million inhabitants, distinguished for enterprise, energy and ambition, possessing such exuberant resources. What an immense cost of importation would be saved by manufacturing these things for ourselves, and furnishing employment to thousands engaged in the mechanic arts.

Then would a new means of support be given to the population of our towns and cities. Then labor would find remunerative prices the year round,—then would there be a large demand for our wheat and flour, for our pork and beef, and an amazing impetus given to the growth and prosperity of the State"

These are truths forcibly expressed and timely uttered. Undoubtedly the great want of our State, at the present time, is increased employment for skilled mechanical labor.—Our City feels this need to a greater extent, probably, than any other part of the State; for there is always a considerable floating population here, which comes and goes according to the demand for labor and the price paid for it. With such a climate as Wisconsin enjoys, such abundant agricultural resources, such an unlimited water-power, such exhaustless stores of the raw material for the various manufactures of iron, copper, lead, wood and wool, there can be no possible reason why manufacturers should not succeed in this State. Here in our city, for instance, the manufacture of stoves, of white lead, of agricultural implements, of boots and shoes, of clothing apparel, of woollen fabrics, and others that might be enumerated, would give steady and profitable employment to thousands of industrious artisans and yield fair returns for the capital invested. With a modification of the existing tariff, discriminating in favor of home enterprise and industry, capital, which is now very abundant at the East, would speedily seek out such an inviting field as the establishment of manufactories in this State would afford. Let us hope that not another year will go by without witnessing a change in our laws, favorable to Home-Interests, and the resulting establishment of manufactories in the cities and villages of our State. The full sunshine of prosperity would return to gladden us with its light and warmth, were this desired consummation once effected.

The Surrender of Squatter Sovereignty.

We have already called attention to the fact that the supplementary resolution adopted by the DOUGLAS Convention at Baltimore, on motion of a Louisiana delegate, was a complete and unequivocal surrender of the "Popular Sovereignty" doctrine, on which Mr. DOUGLAS has hitherto based his claims to the Presidency. Some of the DOUGLAS organs, however, affect to deny this, and treat the WICKLIFFE resolution as mere surplusage. Not so with the leaders of the party in New York. Mayor WOOD, writing to the DOUGLAS ratification meeting at Baltimore, says:

The original accession of some of the Southern States at Charleston, appeared to have been justified upon a question of principle to them. Those States demanded an unequivocal declaration of the rights of the Slave States in the Territories, so as to make the platform conform to the decision of the Supreme Court in the Dred Scott case, which has been rendered since the Cincinnati platform was adopted. But the Baltimore Convention, which nominated Mr. Douglas, supplied this objection to the Charleston Convention.

It adopted the following explanatory resolution, which, in my judgment, should be sufficient to satisfy our friends in the South. It entirely covers the whole ground, if rightfully interpreted, without prejudice, and should have been accepted by the seceding delegates:

Resolved, That it is in accordance with the Cincinnati platform, that during the existence of Territorial Government, the measure of the restriction, whatever it may be, imposed by the Federal Constitution, on the power of the Territorial Legislature over the subject of the domestic relations, as the same has been, or shall hereafter be finally determined by the Supreme Court of the United States, should be respected by all good citizens and enforced by every branch of the general Government.

This is conclusive testimony as to the meaning and intent of the WICKLIFFE resolution. It was designed as a "sop" to the South, and Mayor WOOD—a zealous opponent of the "Squatter Sovereignty" dogma—pronounces it entirely satisfactory. In his judgment, "it covers the whole ground," and is "an unequivocal declaration of the rights of the Slave States in the Territories;" thus conforming the DOUGLAS platform to the DRED SCOTT decision, as well as to the well-known sentiments of Gov. JOHNSON, the DOUGLAS candidate for the Vice-Presidency.

The Visit of the Prince of Wales.

The latest advices from England state that the Prince of Wales will start from Devonport on the 12th of July in Her Majesty's steamer Hero, which will be accompanied by two other steamers. The Prince will be attended by the Duke of Newcastle, Secretary of State for the Colonies; the Earl of St. Germans, Lord Steward of Her Majesty's household; and by his Royal Highness' governor, the equerries in waiting, and Dr. AUCKLAND, the palace physician. Mr. ENGLEHART, the private secretary to the Duke of Newcastle, will accompany His Grace. The Prince of Wales will first land at St. Johns, N. F., then visit Nova Scotia, and thence proceed to visit New Brunswick and Prince Edward's Island, and will reach Quebec by the mouth of the St. Lawrence. He may be expected at Montreal about the 23d of August, and the opening of the Victoria Bridge will take place a few days later. His Royal Highness will represent her Majesty upon this important occasion, and will hold levees and receive addresses in the capitals of the different colonies. It is intended that the Prince should visit the principal towns in both the Canadian provinces. The general plan of this tour, as now understood, will be, after leaving Quebec, the opening of the Victoria Bridge, the visit to Montreal, thence to Toronto, thence to Niagara Falls, thence to Hamilton, taking all the smaller towns and places of interest on the route. From Hamilton the party will proceed, via the Great Western Railway, through Paris, London and Chatham to Windsor, where they will bid farewell to Canada.

From Detroit, the Prince will proceed to Cincinnati and thence to Washington, where he will be the guest of the President. After a few days spent at the Federal Capital, the Prince will visit Philadelphia, New York and Boston; embarking from the latter city for home, which he expects to reach by the middle of October. On his way from Detroit to Cincinnati, the Prince will probably take the Detroit and Milwaukee Railway route and make our city a brief visit.

"ALL THE DECENCY."—The News of yesterday publishes a coarse and clumsy letter from "A Jackson Democrat," at Madison, under the following chaste and appropriate heading:

HONEST ABE'S CHARACTER IS ESTABLISHED.

The aid of Hypocritical Priests; again invoked to sustain the Tottering and Crumbling reputation of Lincolnpoops alias Black Republicans.

Does the News really expect to benefit its cause, or injure Mr. LINCOLN, by such low blackguardism? It must have a poor opinion of its readers if it does.

THE TONE OF THE SOUTHERN PRESS.—The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, after denouncing DOUGLAS, continues as follows in favor of the BRECKINRIDGE and LANE ticket:—

"No true Southern man, and certainly no sound Democrat, can hesitate as to choice between the two wings of the Democratic party. It is Douglas and squatter sovereignty on the one side, and State Rights Democracy on the other. The entire South is united, with the exception of Missouri. The President of the Charleston Convention, and at least half of the delegates from Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, with all of the Northern States on the Pacific shore, are united in defense of Southern institutions. Let the friends of the Constitution rejoice with exceeding great joy.—All hail to a united South."

WISCONSIN FARM MORTGAGES.—The Madison Journal publishes a letter from a correspondent at Providence, Rhode Island, which states that about half a million of dollars of Wisconsin Farm Mortgages are held in that city, and that the holders of them "are disposed to sympathize with the Farmers and ready to settle with them on generous terms."

THE HAY CROP.—Our hay crop, this year, will be abundant in quantity and excellent in quality. The Madison Journal says that it was never better in that vicinity, and that new Timothy can now be contracted from Farmers at six dollars per ton.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 9.

I shall send you, from time to time, more names as I find good places for the Democrat to work in.

The skies are bright here. The fact is gradually becoming manifest to the Douglas men that their candidate has no chance, and they are quietly but steadily deserting to the Republican ranks. This I know.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY—ACTION OF THE BOARD OF REGENTS.—The Board of Regents of the State University, at their meeting last year, provided that the several chairs of the University should be vacated at the close of the late term, in order that any changes might be made in the Faculty that should be thought proper.

The Board met yesterday, and re-elected Professors Sterling, Butler, Carr, and Daniel Read. Dr. D. B. Reid, though not re-elected, is continued for the next term. Dr. J. P. Fuchs is elected to the chair of modern languages, in place of Prof. Pickard.

It has also been resolved to curtail all expenditures, as far as possible, in order to provide a sinking fund to pay off the debt of the University. The professors are accordingly allowed but $1,000 per year out of the fund, the remaining portion of their salary being dependent upon the number of students and the amount of tuition fees.—Madison Journal, July 11.

Letter from Secretary Harvey.

Among the prominent Republicans who were invited to attend the Mass Ratification Meeting in this City on Wednesday last, was our efficient and popular Secretary of State, the Hon. L. P. HARVEY. Prevented, by official engagements, from accepting the invitation, Mr. HARVEY wrote the following capital letter, which has been handed to us for publication:

MADISON, July 9, 1860.

W. Y. Selleck, Esq., Corresponding Secretary of the Young Men's Republican Club, Milwaukee:—DEAR SIR:—Accept my grateful acknowledgement for the kind and complimentary invitation, conveyed by your favor of the 6th inst., to be present and address a Mass Convention of the Republicans of the First District, in Milwaukee, on the 11th; called, as you say, "to place before the people for re election to Congress, our gallant and faithful Representative, the Hon. JOHN F. POTTER."

Believe me, no similar invitation could possibly have taken my inclination so completely by storm, as yours. But it so happens, that on the particular day named for your Mass Meeting, of all the days in this month, I cannot, in decent regard to the obligations of official duty and the convenience of others, be absent from Madison. Engagements for the day, made long prior to notice of your meeting, most positively prohibit.—But my interest and sympathies are all with the object of your meeting on Wednesday.

The voters of the First District do credit to themselves in studying to make the nomination and election of JOHN F. POTTER, at this particular juncture, conspicuous by their unanimity and enthusiasm. He has proven himself true to their convictions, faithful to their interests, and shown himself determined to maintain the right at all hazards. His constituents owe to him, to themselves, to the prevailing need and desire for more such men in the National Councils, that they exhibit marked appreciation of these sterling qualities. To have faithful Representatives, we must have faithful constituencies.

The race of doughfaces grew and thrived just so long as the North remained too divided in council, and too infirm in purpose, to stand up for their convictions and maintain their rights in the Union. That class of representatives, whom it is just now the fashion to pillory in public scorn and ridicule, were about as sincere and earnest and manly as the masses of voters who tolerated them—their record reflects the character of the majorities who sustained them. If the people of the North had never (if they had not habitually) sanctioned compromises of right for the sake of peace and yielded to injustice for the sake of quiet, their demagogues and parasites could never have driven such numerous and successful sales of themselves and their constituencies in the Washington Market. Until very recently, there has appeared in the North no firm and enduring purpose upon which a true man could hope to build the structure of a true life in the public service. Yielding, on the part of the North, has become habitual—the uninterrupted success of the South has accustomed them to feel that their right to control is a sort of divine right, like the hereditary descent of crown and kingly prerogative.

Now that the North seems, to some extent, awakened to a sense of the extent and consequences of her degradation from her just share and influence in dictating the policy and controling the affairs of government, she has need of earnest, truthful and brave men to represent her constituencies and guard their honor. Theirs is the necessity of meeting and contending with a privileged class, the out growth of institutions alien to the spirit of our boasted free and equal form of government, whose education from childhood, has been to the exercise of arbitrary power; who have grown more proud and arrogant by long rule in the affairs of state; who regard the Northern people an inferior race—"pliant Greeks," fit for artizans, inventors, craftsmen and school masters—in convenient places, for post masters and tide waiters, but in whom it is gross impertinence to cherish convictions opposed to theirs, and nothing short of insolence, meriting personal chastisement for them, to prefer any claim to govern, or lead in the conduct of national affairs.

Against these hereditary prejudices and the fierce passions they engender, the representatives of Northern sentiment must persevere until they win for the free labor States—where germinated the first ideas of free and equal society; whose willing hands have wrought for our country its history of development and progress; where civilization presents its highest attainments, and the only example of equality of rights to labor—respect for their opinions, regard for their rights, and their just measure of influence in the government. The service demands men of physical, as well as moral courage. In these exciting times, the acts of public men are watched and pondered, and the effect of their conduct is abiding. "Constituted as the human heart is, men will never admire, or follow, or be ruled by the mean spirited and craven. They will follow the bold and courageous, and these will be their rulers, whether in justice or in injustice—whether for their weal, or their woe."* Past experience and present dangers alike admonish us of the value of this truth.

The Republicans of the First District of Wisconsin will do, on next Wednesday, the thing at once the most politic and the most patriotic, in placing JOHN F. POTTER before the people for re-election, by unanimous acclamation. The most politic, for there is no possibility of failure, before the people, with such a man. His name and fame will prove electric. The most patriotic, because he is a man for the times. The rights and honor of his constituents are safe in his keeping, for he has shown the spirit to defend both them and his person from insult, assault and personal violence. This is no idle vaporing. I appeal to any honorable representative from the North, who has chafed under plantation insolence for a few sessions in Congress, if a Northern member of Congress is not in constant peril of these indignities. Said one of the most self-governed and truly conservative of the public men of our own State, in conversation with the writer on this very subject: "My feelings in reference to Northern men engaging in duels underwent a great change the term I served in Congress, ten years ago. I could but foresee the time might be near at hand when they would be driven, by taunts, and jeers, and insults, to meet ruffianism with its own boasted weapons, or yield the right of free discussion in Congress." This, from almost the last man in the State from whom one would expect the least toleration for this barbarous custom, so much in favor with the Southern chivalry.

Nevertheless, in honoring JOHN F. POTTER for courage, and manly bearing in his late difficulty with Mr. PRYOR, I do not understand the people of his District, or of the North, hate one jot or tittle from their detestation of the bloody code. The invasion of this barbarism upon the sanctity of their own firesides, in the person of their own Representative, only serves to quicken a fresh realization of our fearful national demoralization under the rule of the Slave Power.

Mr. POTTER is honored for a signal and valuable demonstration that the best way to dodge a difficulty is to meet it boldly—that the quickest method of disarming a Southern bully is to face him down—for the fresh contempt poured upon the whole corps of Southern hotspurs by his exposure of a conceited, swaggering champion of the "responsible-here-and-elsewhere" school to well merited ridicule. But far more is your gallant Congressman to be honored for the self-devotion which could peril the favor of his own constituents—of the people of the North—even life itself, in defence of the right of a Northern Representative to utter the cherished convictions of the Northern people, and advocate their interests upon the floor of the National Congress.

Influenced by considerations thus partially and imperfectly recited, I can but regard your Mass Meeting on Wednesday as no holiday occasion, the results of your action of no transient importance. The unanimous nomination and triumphant election of JOHN F. POTTER to a seat in the next Congress must be considered, in the light of the attendant circumstances, one of the most valuable as it will be one of the most interesting incidents of the exciting election this fall.

Confident of that result, I remain,

Very respectfully,
L. P. HARVEY.

GRAND CHANCE TO SECURE A HOME upon such terms that any one who has any industry can do it. Mr. Glidden, who owns one-half of Lookwood & Glidden's Addition, has made me his agent, to sell his lots in said Addition, at unusually low prices, to any one who will improve them, and upon such terms that any one can meet the payments. It is unnecessary to go into argument to convince one who has any judgment that the property, which is situated in the First Ward, must, and will be the most desirable residence property in the city of Milwaukee. It is in full view of the lake and on high ground which overlooks the city. A more healthy situation cannot be found. Its location for business is very desirable, as the Horicon Railroad passing through it every fifteen or twenty minutes. Much more could be said about this valuable property, but we will only say, that any one who does not desire to purchase any of said Lots, if they will call at my office they can see a map, and I will go with them and point out the lots, and give my opinion for themselves. The terms on which said lots will be sold are as follows: Ten per cent in twelve months, ten per cent and 25 per cent per year, every year thereafter until the amounts is paid, with interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum. Interest not to commence until six months after the date of purchase. Here is a chance never before offered, and there is every reason to believe that this property will increase in ten per cent in less than twelve months. The great advantages of the Horse Railroad must, and will make it very desirable. The lots are free from all encumbrances whatever. Certificate of title will be furnished to any one who may purchase.

PULPIT ELOQUENCE.

The day was declining—the breeze in its glee
Had left the fair blossoms to sing on the sea,
As the sun in its gorgeousness, radiant and still,
Dropped down like a gem from the brow of the hill,
One tremulous star in the glory of June
Came out with a smile and sat down by the moon,
As she graced her blue throne with the pride of a queen
The smiles of her lovelines gladdened the scene.

The scene was enchanting! in distance away
Rolled the foam-created waves of the Chesapeake bay,
While bathing in moonlight the village was seen
With the church in the distance that stood on the green.
The soft-sleeping meadows lay brightly enrolled,
With their mantles of verdure and blossoms of gold,
And the earth in her beauty, forgetting to grieve,
Lay asleep in her bloom on the bosom of eve.

A light-hearted child, I had wandered away
From the spot where my footsteps had gamboled all day,
And free as a bird was the song of my soul,
As I heard the wild waters exultingly roll;
While lightening my heart as I sported along,
With bursts of loud laughter and snatches of song,
I struck in the pathway half worn o'er the sod
By the feet that went up to the worship of God.

As I traced its green windings, a murmur of prayer
With the hymn of the worshipers rose on the air,
And drawn by the links of its sweetness along,
I stood unobserved in the midst of the throng.
For a while my young spirit still wandered about
With the birds, and the winds, that were singing without;
But birds, waves, and zephyrs, were quickly forgot
In one angel-like being that brightened the spot.

In stature majestic, apart from the throng,
He stood in his beauty, the theme of my song!
His cheek pale with fervor—the blue orbs above
Lit up with the splendors of youth and of love,
Yet the heave glowing rapture that beamed from those eyes
Seemed saddened by sorrow, and chastened by sighs,
As if the young heart in its bloom had grown cold
With its love unrequited, its sorrows untold.

Such language as his may I never recall,
But his theme was salvation—salvation to all,—
And the souls of a thousand in ecstacy hung
On the manna-like sweetness that dropped from his tongue.

Not alone on the ear his wild eloquence stole,
Enforced by each gesture, it sunk to the soul,
Till it seemed that an angel had brightened the sod,
And brought to each bosom a message from God.

He spoke of the Savior—what pictures he drew!
The scenes of his suffering rose clear to my view—
The cross—the rude cross, where he suffered and died;
The gush of bright crimson that flowed from his side;
The cup of his sorrows—the wormwood and gall;
The darkness that mantled the earth as a pall;
The garland of thorns—and the death-like cry
Who knelt as they scoffed him, "Hail, King of the Jews."

He spoke, and it seemed that his statue-like form
Expanded and glowed as his spirit grew warm;
His tone so impassioned—so melting his air,
As touched with a inspiration he ended in prayer;
His hands clasped across him—his head bowed upthrown,
Still pleading; tr sins that were never his own,
While that mouth where such sweetness ineffable clung,
Still spoke, though expression had died on his tongue.

O God! what emotions the speaker awoke!
A mortal he seemed—yet a Deity spoke;
A man—yet so far from humanity riven;
Oh earth—yet so closely connected with heaven!
How oft in my fancy I've pictured him there
As he stood in that triumph of passion and prayer,
With his eyes closed in rapture—their transient eclipse
Made bright by the smiles that illumined his lips.

'There's a charm in delivery—a magical art
That thrills like a kiss, from the lip to the heart;
'Tis the glance—the expression—the well-chosen word,
By whose magic the depths of the spirit are stirred;
The smile—the mute gesture—the soul-starting pause,
The eye's sweet expression, that melts while it awes—
The lip's soft persuasion, its musical tone,
O such was the charm of that eloquent one!

The time is long past—yet how clearly defined
That boy, church, and village float up on my mind;
I see amid azure the moon in her pride,
With the sweet little trembler that sat by her side;
I hear the blue waves, as the wanders along,
Keep in their gladness and sing her a song,
And I tread in the pathway half-worn o'er the sod
By the feet that went up to the worship of God.

The time is long past, yet what visions I see!
The past, the dim past, is the present to me.
I am standing once more 'mid that heart-stricken throng
A vision floats up—'tis the the theme of my song—
All glorious and bright as a spirit of air,
The light, like a halo, encircling his hair.
As I catch the same accents of sweetness and love,
He whispers of Jesus, and points us above.

How sweet to my heart is the picture I've traced!
Its chain of bright fancies seemed almost effaced,
Till Memory, the fond one that sits in the soul,
Took up the fruit links, and collected the whole.
As its dew to the blossom—so falls to the bee—
As the scent to the rose—are those memories to me;
Round the chords of my heart they have tremblingly clung,
And the echo it gives is the song I have sung.

THE WIFE.

I have often had occasion to remark the fortitude with which women sustain the most overwhelming reverses of fortune.—Those disasters which break down the spirit of man, and prostrate him in the dust, seem to call forth all the energies of the softer sex, and give such intrepidity and elevation to the character, that at times it approaches to sublimity. Nothing can be more touching than to behold a soft, tender female, who has been all weakness and dependence, and alive to every trivial roughness while treading the prosperous paths of life, suddenly rising in mental force to be the comforter and support of her husband under misfortune, and abiding with shrinking firmness the bitter blast of adversity.

As the vine which has long twined its graceful foliage about the oak, and been lifted by it into sunshine, will, when the hardy plant is felled by the thunderbolt, cling round it with caressing tendrils, and bind up its shattered boughs, so it is beautifully ordered by Providence that woman, who is the mere dependent and ornament of man in his happy hours, should be his stay and solace when smitten with sudden calamity, winding herself into the rugged recesses of his nature, tenderly supporting the drooping head, and binding up the broken heart.

I was once congratulating a friend who had around him a blooming family, knit together in the strongest affections, "I can wish no better lot," said he, with enthusiasm, "than to have a wife and children. If you are prosperous, they are there to share your prosperity; if otherwise, they are there to comfort you." And, indeed, I have observed that a married man fallen into misfortune, is more apt to retrieve his lost situation in the world than a single one, partly because he is more stimulated to exertion by the necessities of the helpless and beloved beings who depend on him for subsistence, but chiefly because his spirits are soothed by domestic endearments: and his self-respect kept alive by finding that, though all abroad is darkness and humiliation, yet there is still a little world of love at home of which he is the monarch. Whereas, the single man is apt to run to waste and self-neglect, to fancy himself lonely and abandoned, and his heart to fall to ruin, like some deserted mansion, for want of inhabitants.

These observations call to mind a little domestic story, of which I was once a witness. My intimate friend, Leslie, married a beautiful and accomplished girl, who had been brought up in fashionable life. She had, it is true, no fortune, but my friend's was ample, and he delighted in the anticipation of indulging her in every elegant pursuit, and administering to those delicate tastes and fancies that spread a kind of witchery about the sex. "Her life," said he, "shall be like a fairy tale."

The very difference of their character produced a harmonious combination. He was of a romantic and serious cast; she was all life and gladness. I have often noticed the mute rapture with which he would gaze upon her in company, of which her sprightly powers made her the delight; and how in the midst of her applause, her eyes would still turn to him, as if there alone she sought for favor and acceptance. When hanging on his arm, her slender form contrasting finely with his tall, manly person, the fond, confiding air with which she looked up to him, seemed to call forth a flush of triumphant pride and cherishing tenderness, as if he doted on his lovely burden for its helplessness. Never did a couple set forward on the flowery path of early and well situated marriage with a fairer prospect of felicity.

It was the misfortune of my friend, however, to have embarked his property in large speculations; he was not married many months, when by a succession of sudden disasters it was swept from him, and he found himself reduced almost to penury.—For a time he kept his situation to himself, and went about with a haggard countenance and a breaking heart. His life was but protracted agony, and what rendered it more insupportable was the necessity of keeping up a smile in the presence of his wife; for he could not bring himself to overwhelm her with the news. She saw, however, with the quick eye of affection, that all was not well with him. She marked his altered looks and stifled sighs, and was not to be deceived by his sickly and vivid attempts at cheerfulness. She tasked all her sprightly power and tender blandishments to win him back to happiness; but she only drove the arrow deeper into his soul. The more he saw cause to love her, the more torturing was the thought, that he was soon to make her wretched. A little while, thought he, and the smile will vanish from that cheek, the song will die away from those lips, the lustre of those eyes will be quenched with sorrow, and the happy heart that beats lightly in that bosom will be weighed down, like mine, by the miseries and cares of this world.

At length he came to me one day, and related his whole situation in a tone of deep despair. When I heard him through, I inquired. "Does you wife know all this?" At the question he burst into an agony of tears. "For God's sake!" cried he, "if you have any pity on me, don't mention my wife; it is the thought of her that drives me almost to madness."

"And why not?" said I. "She must know it sooner or later; you cannot keep it long from her, and the intelligence may break upon her in a more startling manner than if imparted by yourself; for the accents of those we love soften the hardest tidings.—Besides, you are depriving yourself of the comforts of her sympathy; not merely that, but endangering the only bond that can keep hearts together—an unreserved community of thought and feeling. She will sooner perceive that something is secretly preying upon your mind, and true love will not brook reserve; it feels undervalued when even the sorrows of those it loves are concealed from it."

"Oh! but, my friend, to think what a blow I am to give her future prospects. How am I to strike her very soul to the earth, by telling her that her husband is a beggar? that she is to forego all the elegancies of life—all the pleasures of gay society—to shrink with me into indigence and obscurity? To tell her that I have dragged her down from the sphere in which she might have continued to move in constant brightness—the light of every eye—the admiration of every heart? She has been the idol of society. Oh, it will break her heart."

I saw his grief was eloquent, and I let it have its flow; for sorrow relieves itself by words. When his paroxysm had subsided, and he had relapsed into moody silence, I resumed the subject gently, and urged him to break his situation at once to his wife.—He shook his head mournfully, but positively.

St. Nicholas Hotel,

BROADWAY,

NEW YORK

WHEN COMPLETED, SIX YEARS ago, the St. Nicholas was universally pronounced the most magnificent, convenient and thoroughly organized establishment of the kind on this continent. What it was then, it remains today—without a rival in magnificence, and in the general elements of comfort and enjoyment. The Hotel has accommodations for 1,500 guests, including 300 complete suites of apartments, and by means of hundred persons can be comfortably seated at the tables of its three public dining rooms, and nothing that modern art has devised for the convenience and social gratification of the traveling public has been omitted, but its plan is neglected in its practical details. The early reputation of the house at home and abroad derived from its magnitude, its superb appointments, and its homelike comforts and luxuries, has been enhanced every year by the unmerited encomiums of the press and public.

MILWAUKEE DAILY SENTINEL. SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 14, 1860.

TELEGRAPH!

REPORTED BY THE N. Y. ASSOCIATED PRESS FOR THE DAILY SENTINEL.

Washington Matters.

WASHINGTON, July 13—3 P. M.

All the statements representing that Mr. Bright, of Ind., had agreed to support or countenance the Douglas ticket, indirectly or otherwise, are unfounded. Information has been received here from different sources stating that he and his friends have organized a Breckinridge electoral ticket, which will be immediately put in the field, and that they intend to run it at all hazards, and without the least hope of compensation.

Senor Don Gabriel Tasserl, the Spanish Minister, will be here in a few days on a visit to Senator Seward, with whom he will spend some time by special invitation.

A western despatch says arrangements are being made for a California pony express on the Butterfield route.

Late advices from Peru, state that our relations with that Republic are approaching a crisis. The U. S. sloop of war Wyandotte, had arrived at Callao, with despatches for our Minister, instructing him to peremptorily demand a settlement of the claims growing out of the seizure of the ships Lizzie Thompson and Georgiana, and provisions for a joint commission for the settlement of all outstanding claims of our citizens. Some delay had however occurred in consequence of the resignation of the Peruvian Minister of Foreign Affairs, and it was not improbable that our government would be compelled to resort to force, before the demands would be complied with.

In case of non-compliance with the demands of our government, the American Minister was instructed to close the legation.

The Peruvian Minister at Washington has been notified that unless his government accept the ultimatum of the government of the United States, his passport will be furnished him.

The difficulty between France and Peru has been adjusted, though not until a bombardment of Callao was threatened.

A meeting of National Democrats, composed of many leading politicians of this city, was held at the Union House, Union Square, for the purpose of organizing a central committee favorable to the election of Douglas and Johnson.

The stories going the rounds of the papers about the quarrel between the President and Senator Gwin, are officially contradicted, as entirely destitute of any foundation in fact. It is further stated that their relations were never more friendly than now.

The Tribune's Washington correspondent says that Reverdy Johnson will go to California on the 25th inst., to argue the New Alnaden case before the United States District Court.

LATEST NEWS!

BY LAST NIGHT'S REPORT

Execution of Hicks.

NEW YORK, July 13—9 P. M.

Hicks, the pirate murderer, was executed on Bedloe's Island, at 11:30 to-day. A large number of prisoners witnessed the dying struggles of the hardened wretch.

On his being conducted to the gallows, the first view which presented itself before him was the identical sloop, the E. A. Johnson, which was moored directly in front of the gallows. Thus his last look on this earth was upon the scene of his bloody deed. The E. A. Johnson had a large flag, bearing her name, flying, and on the mast-head was perched a sailor who waved his cap and hurrahed as the murderer descended the tree.—Her deck was crowded, and a slight murmur could be distinctly heard on shore when Hicks was placed under the drop. Marshal Rynders advanced and addressed Hicks as follows:

"Hicks if you desire to say anything before your execution, you can address the people."

Hicks replied in a faint tone: "I don't want to say anything to any one except my confessor; I wish you to hang me quick."

The black cap was then pulled over the unfortunate man's eyes, and amidst yells, a few seconds after he had expressed his wish, the signal was given and Hicks was launched into eternity. At 11:15 the rope was cut. Hicks trembled violently for some two minutes and then remained quiet. In four minutes a slight plunge of the legs and a violent twitch of the arms was perceptible.

After hanging 15 minutes he was lowered and the Doctors examined his pulse. He was allowed to hang 30 minutes before he was cut down, although life was extinct in less than 15 minutes. The body was then lowered from the drop and placed in the coffin and was conveyed on board the Red Jacket to be taken to the place of interment.

Washington Matters.

WASHINGTON, July 13—9 P. M.

It was recently stated in a despatch from New Orleans, that a revenue cutter had gone to overhaul the schooner J. B. Taylor, which sailed from that port for Central America with emigrants or fillibusters. For more than two months it has been known that several small parties of such adventurers have repaired thither, but these movements are here considered too insignificant for serious comment.

As the old Jackson Democratic Association was lately thoroughly disruptured by the contentionary Douglas and Breckinridge members, each wing has taken preliminary steps to establish a campaign club, the one altogether independent of the other.

A petition has been numerously signed and presented to the President, and by him transferred to the Secretary of War, praying for the immediate resumption of the work on the Washington aqueduct. It will be recollected that Congress appropriated half a million dollars for this purpose, to be expended under the superintendence of Capt. Meigs. This provision has somewhat embarrassed the administration, but there seems to be no doubt, apart from the question which the designation of that office involves, that the operation of the aqueduct will shortly be resumed.

New York Matters.

NEW YORK, July 13—9 P. M.

This morning Sergeant Wyeth, of the 7th Ward, arrested Andrew Smith, a member of the last Legislature from the 11th Ward of this city, on complaint of Andrew Dugro, Ex-Governor of the Alms House, charged with having forged the signature of John Kerr, one of the ex commissioners, as endorser of a note of his own by Smith for $630.

Col. J. P. Cross, the celebrated forger, has been convicted of forging a check on the Consolidation Bank of this city.

The 5th mortgage bonds of the Erie Rail Road Co. have been foreclosed and the sale will take place Nov. 20th, at the Merchants Exchange. This foreclosure, which is probably the final step in the reorganization of the Company, as authorized by acts of the New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania Legislatures, is rendered easy and agreeable to all the interests involved, inasmuch as arrangements are understood to have been made for the final redemption of that part of past due second mortgage bonds—amounting to about $2,000,000—the holders of which have insisted upon prompt payment in cash of principal and interest. It is understood that the Company, under the new organization, is to be known as the Erie Rail Road Co.

MONETARY.

FRIDAY P. M., July 13th, 1860.

The money market to-day has been very quiet, with an abundance both of Exchange and Currency. The selling rate of Exchange on the East is 1¾ premium at the banks; buying at 1 ⅜ cent.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE AT CHICAGO.—The Press and Tribune of this morning says:

Exchange is rather stiffer to-day, and several parties were glad to get it at a fraction above regular buying rates, viz: 1 per cent. premium. The selling rates at banks are 1½. It is thought the market will be easier in a day or two.

Gold 1¾ with small demand.

The money market is well supplied. It is by no means easy to place 6 per cent loans at 10 per cent. We mean easy to place a considerable amount to-day at 8 per cent for 6 or 8 months, and "highly collateral," and the security inside property and ample. For five year loans even 8 per cent. is regarded as a large figure, as the tendency is strongly to greater abundance.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.—We have the following stock quotations by telegraph from New York to-day:

There was a firmer market both for flour and wheat at New York to-day, and prices had an upward tendency. Milwaukee Club sold at $1,28@1,30, and Chicago spring at $1,25½@1,26.

Our market felt the influence of this improvement, No. 1 spring advancing to $1,12 delivered, and Extra Club to $1,14@1,15, but as for several days past, lightness of receipts prevented anything like activity in the market.

There was more doing in flour, about 900 bbls changing hands, mostly early in the day, at rather lower figures than prevailed yesterday. Prices ranged from $4.70 to 5,00 for common to choice country and good city Extras.

Oats were firmer at 28c, and some small lots brought 29c delivered. Under better receipts Corn declined 1c, shelled selling at 45c. Other articles were nominally unchanged.

THE REASON WHY receipts of wheat have been larger at Chicago for several days than at Milwaukee, is because the harvest in Southern Illinois commences some weeks earlier than in the country tributary to this city, and they are already receiving considerable quantities of new red wheat at Chicago.

ARRIVALS OF MERCHANDIZE.—Two propellers arrived from Buffalo to-day, heavily loaded with merchandize, the greater portion of which were for this port. Many of our merchants are already at the East purchasing, and before the first of August our market will be stocked with a full supply of goods all ready for the big fall trade.

SHIPMENTS FROM RIPON.—The Ripon Star publishes the annexed summary of the shipments of grain from that station, for eleven months ending with June:

Wheat, bus	855,000
Barley, bus	8,232
Oats, bus	2,517

The shipments of dressed hogs, which closed on the first week in March, amounted to 350,000 lbs.

CHICAGO MARKET, JULY 11TH.—Receipts of the articles named, at Chicago, yesterday, were as follows:

Flour, bbls	403
Highwines, do	7,896
Corn, bus	91,811
Oats, bus	7,642
Rye, bus	1,050

In reference to the market the Press & Tribune says:

The receipts of corn to-day were 91,311 bus, and the shipments 100,047 bus. The market opened very quiet, but under the influence of more favorable news from New York, an advance of about ½c was established. About 130,000 bus changed hands, at 42½@42¾c for No. 2 Canal afloat, 43¾@44½c for No. 1; and 42¾@43c for No. 2 Canal at the close being quiet but firm at 44@44½c for No. 1. Wheat was in good demand but very scarce, and we note an advance of 1c, with limited sales at $1,07@1,08 for No. 2 spring; $1,10 for No. 1 spring; and 92c for rejected spring. New winter wheat was in better supply, and the market was firmer. Corn was lower. Fire and lower. Rye and barley were dull. Oats were active and steady at 25¾@26c in store. Old Rye sold at 56c on track; damp new at 50c @ 50 lbs. Highwines 18½c. Provisions were in fair supply and dull. Butter steady, with a fair shipping demand. Whitefish continues scarce and firm at $3,50 for No. 1, and $2,75 for No. 2 Trout. Hides rather dull. Wool steady.

In freights we have nothing to report. Shippers hold off, and we quote the rate nominally at 6½c for corn to Buffalo.

ST. LOUIS MARKET, JUNE 10TH.—The Democrat of Wednesday thus reports Tuesday's market at St. Louis:

FLOUR—1,000 bbls city superfine sold in two equal lots, understood to be at 5,25@5,80 per barrel delivered; also 300 bbls do at 5,75, and 50 bbls country double extra at 7,12½.

WHEAT—No receipts, and but few samples were offered, which were mostly limited. The only sales reported were 38 bags fair fall at 1,15, and 388 bags fall on private terms.

CORN—The market was dull and languid to-day for all qualities, except white, but prices were nearly sustained. Sales include 128 bags common mixed at 48c; 2 288 bags prime mixed, yellow and mixed white at 50, 51@52c; 88 bags strictly prime white at 56c, and 160 bags choice do at 58c, in new gunnies.

OATS—Receipts of 4,254 bus yesterday to-day, holders were firmer, and realized rather better prices. Sales include 300 bags light at 40¾c; and 2,240 bags prime, in lots, in good and new bags at 41¾@42c.

RYE—A small lot new was sold at 59c, in bags.

PROVISIONS—There is a steady consumptive demand, and the market is steady and firm. The sales reported to-day include 50 casks city shoulders and 100 casks city rib sides bacon on private terms; 20 and 25 casks city do hams—shoulders at 8½c, plain hams at 10½c, canvassed do at 11c, and clear at 12c, and 6 casks country clear sides at 11½c ₱ lb. Mess pork firm at $19.

NEW YORK WOOL MARKET, July 7th.—The market is again a trifle better, and more doing; but the sales have been mostly in small parcels of a retail nature, and nothing of importance passed from first hands; the week has been rather a broken one, and but little business expected. Fleece wools arriving more freely, and is now under process of sorting and getting ready for the market; it costs high in the country, and will have to be sold at small profits. The great rush of manufacturers and dealers from other places than this city has created so much excitement among wool growers that 4@5c per ₱ lb has been paid more than was expected before the shearing began. About 40,000 lbs of fleece have changed hands the present week; no prices mentioned. Nothing reported in pulled wool; prices of old are nominal; and the new pullings on lambs are offered at 35@36c, no takers. California is quiet; no sales made since our last; the qualities remaining on hand are low, and are quoted at 10@13c; some quotations have appeared for California washed at 55c, but there is no such wool in the market, and nothing offered from first hands above 25c. 7,000 lbs unwashed African sold on private terms. Texas wool is coming in freely; sales, however, have been light, holders' views being above the market. In foreign wools there has been considerable business; carpet descriptions are scarce and very firm. The sales are 1,100 bales unwashed Persian, 120 do Cape, 80 do Corcoa, 50 do Nevitza, and 1,500 lbs unwashed African, on private terms.

NEW YORK HIDE MARKET, JULY 2.—The market was very quiet to-day. The sales of the week have been only 4500 hides, and prices are nominal. The following is from the Circular of Weizel and Weidemeyer—"Here have we experienced so universal a business quietude as has obtained during the present week among hide purchasers; and we may add that it is difficult to gather sufficient material from which to shape our customary weekly circular. Since our last we have three arrivals of importance—one from Buenos Ayres, one from Rio Grande, and another from San Francisco, with hides. The ship Sierra Nevada sailed from the latter port on the 29th of May for New York, with part cargo of 5,350 hides. Stock 6th July, 1860, 392,000; 9th July, 1859, 345,000; 31st July, 1858, 131,000; 31st July, 1857, 166,400 hides. Dry Hides—transactions in all kinds have been only nominal. With continued fair receipts, in the absence of sales, our stock is further increased; the market wears a quiet, heavy appearance. Green Hides—We are without movement of any kind. Southern oak tanners have been very quiet during the past season; the bulk of our spring importations remains undisturbed. Upper Leath r Hides—Eastern stocks are inactive and nominal. There has been no recent sales of Africans, Rio Plates or Rio Grandes, Wet Salted Hides—Foreign kinds quiet. The parcel of California have not yet been landed. City slaughters 'go off' fairly."
